SETON HILL UNIVERSITY PERFORMING ARTS CENTER

The Seton Hill University Performing Arts Center is home to the university’s programs of Music, Theatre and Dance. Designed by MacLachlan, Cornelius and Filoni, it contains spaces for performance, rehearsal, and instruction for Seton Hill University performing arts students as well as for students enrolled in the Seton Hill University Community Arts Program, including Community Music and the Seton Hill University Dance Academy.

Music performances are held in the Carol Ann Reichgut Concert Hall, a 400-seat venue with excellent acoustics. Theatre performances are held in the William Granger Ryan Theatre, a 200-seat theatre offering an intimate and flexible space.
