Abstract:

This article is a discussion about some concepts and theories outlining foreign policy analysis. The author starts by showing the significance of foreign policy subject in International Relations study, followed by a summary on the development of foreign policy concepts and theories. It then highlights challenges to foreign policy subject concerning with the global transformation. As a conclusion, the author tries to prescribe the global and strategic approaches to the contemporary foreign policy.

(end)